WORK EXPERIENCE

---

Present – Present

As a Computer Science Engineering student currently in the 6th semester, I have gained practical exposure to core computer science concepts through academic coursework, laboratory sessions, and self-driven learning. I have worked on assignments and mini-projects that helped me apply programming and problem-solving skills in a practical way. I am familiar with basic software development processes such as coding, testing, and debugging, and I continuously work on improving my technical skills by learning new tools and technologies.
